

To dress well at a small cost is an accomplishment one can justly feel proud of.

The man with unlimited means deserves no credit for being well dressed—the man with limited means does.

If we dress you you are always sure of the latest—and also sure of saving a few dollars at the same time.

See how nobly our $7.50 pure wool suits and top coats compare with the most costly of the money.

Eiseman Bros.

Corner 7th and E Sts. N. W.
No Branch Store in Washington.

"PROCRUSTATION"
IS THE THIEF OF TIME:
YEAR AFTER YEAR IT STEALS, TILL ALL ARE FEED.

Sorodont
ARRESTS DECAY OF THE TEETH
and prevents their loss. It also cleans them without injury, strengthens the gums, perfumes the breath and imparts a most refreshing sensation.

HALL & RUCKEL
NEW YORK
A sample of Sorodont and Sorodent soap for the postage, three cents.

MASSACHUSETTS RETURNS.

The Democrats Gain Seven Seats in the General Court.

Boston, Nov. 3.—With three small towns to be heard from, the vote for governor in Massachusetts, is: Walker, 164,458; Wilbur, 79,566; Everett, 141,061. This gives Walker a plurality of 85,269 over Wilbur, with a majority over all candidates of about 85,000.

The divided returns for Boston give Walker, 30,246; Wilbur, 24,858; Everett, 3,261. Walker's plurality, 5,632.

The lower branch of the general court stands: 182 Republicans, 51 Democrats, 6 Independents and 1 Prohibitionist. This is a gain of 12 for the Democrats.

In the senate there will be 34 Democrats and 6 Democrats, a gain of one for the latter over last year.

Mr. Wilbur is happy because Governor Walcott's majority was reduced, and because, he succeeded in carrying the city. Walcott, however, had a minority of 40. The gold Democrats rejoice because they received the three per cent of the total vote necessary to keep them on the street, and the Republicans feel well satisfied because Walcott's plurality is greater than any won since 1890. The public school teachers rejoice, with the single exception of Walcott's plurality of last year, when the conditions were unusual.

REACTION IN IOWA.

Large Republican Majority in That State Cut Down.

Iowa, Nov. 3.—Reports of plurality from 91 of the 99 counties in Iowa, give Shaw, Republican, for governor, 30,252 plurality, the other eight counties being conservatively estimated.

The legislature will be closed this week. Today has revealed the defeat of some of the Republican leaders. The house will stand 61 to 39, and the senate 20 to 11, in favor of the Republicans. First returns are so slow in coming in that it is not practicable to give a complete vote tonight, but there is no doubt that the falling off in the total vote has been largely if not quite 25 per cent.

Chairman McMillan, of the Republican State committee, says it is not to be taken as a change of sentiment on the silver question, but the reaction and disappointment that always follows a Presidential election. The party's responsibility is a special session of the legislature and other like acts.

Chairman Walsh, of the Democratic State committee, refuses to make any explanation of the result, merely conceding Shaw's election.

COLORADO RETURNS.

The Result in Doubt, With Chances Favoring Gabbert.

Denver, Col., Nov. 3.—Twenty-four hours after the close of the polls the result of the vote for supreme judge is in doubt, with the chances favoring Gabbert, Populist Democrat. Hoyt, Republican, comes out of Arapahoe county with over 6,000 majority, and the strong Populist counties are not giving Gabbert the majorities expected.

State Chairman Broad, Silver Republican, claims Hoyt's election by 2,500 votes. Chairman Mills, of the People's party, says: "Gabbert is elected by a majority ranging from 5,000 to 8,000. Later returns rather tend to increase than decrease the figures."

Chairman Smith, of the Democratic party, has granted Gabbert today that he had beaten Hoyt by at least 4,000.

Bulgaria Withdraws a Threat.
Berlin, Nov. 3.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung says that Bulgaria has notified the Pope yesterday that it declines to accept the papal declaration of independence and withdraws its diplomatic agent at Constantinople.

The correspondent remarks that the declaration of independence of the Balkan states, which was the cause of the threat, has altered her mind, realizing, presumably, that the consent of the powers is necessary to such a course as she proposed following.

EXTENDING SILVER COINAGE.
The Extension Fixed at One Franc to Each Person.

Paris, Nov. 3.—It is officially announced that five of the states of the Latin Union, namely, France, Italy, Belgium, Switzerland and Greece, have signed a convention extending the limit of silver coinage. The extension is fixed at one franc per head of the population of the respective countries.

The convention provides that each signatory shall use part of its existing surplus of francs for coining 2 1/2 franc pieces. France will thereby be enabled to coin 27,000,000 francs worth, besides adding 3,000,000 francs worth of silver, on which there will be a profit of 1,500,000 francs. This profit will be devoted to redeeming worn gold and silver coins.

MCKINLEY AT PITTSBURGH

Twenty Thousand People Greet Him at the Depot.

LEEVE AT THE ART GALLERY

The Second Celebration of "Founder's Day" to Commemorate the Erection of the Carnegie Art Gallery, Library and Museum—President Makes an Address.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 3.—President McKinley spent a busy day. From the time he arrived in Pittsburgh events crowded thick upon him. A parade, during which he was cheered by thousands, a luncheon, and dinner, a meeting at which he listened to speeches and made out himself, and a concert. All this formed the second celebration of "Founder's Day" to commemorate the erection of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum.

A Presidential salute announced the arrival at the Union station of the President's special train from Canton. Twenty thousand people packed about the station, cheered the President as he descended from the train and got into the waiting carriage.

Accompanied by mounted police, the fourteenth and eighteenth regiments, the Naval Reserve Battalion and a battery of artillery, the carriage containing the President was driven along Liberty street and up Fifth avenue. Other carriages contained the President's staff, Major Ford, Senator Burrows of Michigan and others.

The route of march was decorated with people who cheered the President enthusiastically along the five-mile line of parade.

The troops did not go out all the way and the President reviewed them as they counter-marched back to town. At this point the President halted heartily as a hay dealer stepped to the door of his motor, holding a sheet of what appeared to be the "Pittsburgh Courier."

The President was then driven to the house of the chairman of the board of trustees of the Carnegie Library, and luncheon was served. Mrs. McKinley had been given from the railroad station to the house of Robert F. Wagner, where she was met by two hundred ladies.

The Carnegie Music Hall was crowded and the President was enthusiastically received as he stepped on the stage. Congressman John L. McLean made the address of welcome. Col. Samuel Hadden Church read the report of the trustees. The President spoke in part as follows:

"I have not come, as has often been the case, to discuss economic questions, but to express my interest in the welfare of the people and to testify to the great and successful work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

The President then turned to the trustees of the Carnegie Library, and said: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see the work of the Carnegie Library, Art Gallery and Museum. This is a noble and generous gift of one of our country's noblest citizens, and the generous neighbors who have contributed to its completion."

and are in use in denominations of $1,000 each. The mortgage covers the entire line, with power houses, motors, poles, rolling stock, depots and all other property. The proceeds are to be used in paying off debts and in extending the system.

SEEKING AN ARBITRATION.

Dr. Berry Coming to This Country for Church Union.

New York, Nov. 3.—The Rev. Dr. Charles A. Berry, pastor of Queen Street Church, Washington, and chairman of the English Congregational Union, was a passenger on the Teutonic today, and for ten days will be the guest of Rosier Raymond, of Brooklyn. Dr. Berry's purpose in visiting America is to seek in long about an arbitration treaty between this country and England, and also to promote the movement for church union, which is in progress among non-conformists.

He denied today the report published in England that he had been invited to act as chaplain of the Senate in Washington for one day. He will, however, address a mass meeting at Washington on December 6, on the subject of the arbitration treaty.

There are thousands of people who are suffering from chronic, nervous, skin and blood diseases than any other physician in this country.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Young Men, if you are suffering from nervous debility, stupor, or are otherwise afflicted for study or business, you should take treatment from this doctor before it is too late.

Middle Aged and Old Men, if you are troubled with weak, aching backs, and kidneys, and other urinary troubles, of nervous debility. Many die of this trouble, ignorant of the cause. The most obvious cases of this character are treated with surprising success. $5 a month. Treatment and medicine.

Daily office hours, 10 to 5. Sunday, 10 to 12. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday evenings, 6 to 8.

WHITE SAYS IT IS ABSURD

Ambassador to Germany on Possibility Annexation of Cuba.

He Declares a Majority of American Citizens Are Averse to Such a Course.

Vienna, Nov. 3.—The Berlin correspondent of the New York Journal telegraphs an interview had by him with the Hon. Andrew D. White, the American ambassador to Germany, on the subject of the attitude of America towards Cuba. Mr. White said:

"It is absurd to talk of the United States intending to annex Cuba. An immense majority of the American citizens are entirely averse to such a course, neither do we desire to conflict with Spain regarding the island. Fifty years hence, perhaps later, Cuba, which will then have become civilized, will come to the United States on its own initiative and without an effort on the part of the Washington government."

That future solution of the question seems to me to be inevitable, but at present we will have nothing to do with the annexation.

"The efforts of President McKinley and the government are directed to the maintenance of peace. We anticipate Spanish success. The support of the American people, confidence and interest, but it is difficult to say whether the promised autonomy will induce the insurgents to disarm. They want complete independence, and will not accept anything less than that."

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

PLAIN TRUTHS

Dr. Walker,

Is Treating More Cases

of Chronic, Nervous,

Skin and Blood

Diseases Than Any

Other Physician in

This Country.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Young Men, if you are suffering from nervous debility, stupor, or are otherwise afflicted for study or business, you should take treatment from this doctor before it is too late.

Middle Aged and Old Men, if you are troubled with weak, aching backs, and kidneys, and other urinary troubles, of nervous debility. Many die of this trouble, ignorant of the cause. The most obvious cases of this character are treated with surprising success. $5 a month. Treatment and medicine.

Daily office hours, 10 to 5. Sunday, 10 to 12. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday evenings, 6 to 8.

WHITE SAYS IT IS ABSURD

Ambassador to Germany on Possibility Annexation of Cuba.

He Declares a Majority of American Citizens Are Averse to Such a Course.

Vienna, Nov. 3.—The Berlin correspondent of the New York Journal telegraphs an interview had by him with the Hon. Andrew D. White, the American ambassador to Germany, on the subject of the attitude of America towards Cuba. Mr. White said:

"It is absurd to talk of the United States intending to annex Cuba. An immense majority of the American citizens are entirely averse to such a course, neither do we desire to conflict with Spain regarding the island. Fifty years hence, perhaps later, Cuba, which will then have become civilized, will come to the United States on its own initiative and without an effort on the part of the Washington government."

That future solution of the question seems to me to be inevitable, but at present we will have nothing to do with the annexation.

"The efforts of President McKinley and the government are directed to the maintenance of peace. We anticipate Spanish success. The support of the American people, confidence and interest, but it is difficult to say whether the promised autonomy will induce the insurgents to disarm. They want complete independence, and will not accept anything less than that."

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

He said that the situation in Cuba was a most serious one, and that the government was doing everything possible to bring about a peaceful solution of the question.

A RICH GIRL'S SUICIDE

Shot Herself With a Revolver

at Manhattan Hotel.

CAUSE OF DEED A MYSTERY

Chambermaid Found Her Dead, But

No Clew Has Been Discovered That Explains Why She Wanted to Die—Identified as Jessie K. Parsons—Was Not Demented.

New